King County sponsors the Agricultural Drainage Assistance Program (ADAP). ADAP provides technical and financial assistance to landowners who need to maintain their agricultural drainage. To ensure that water quality and fish are protected under state and federal regulations, ADAP is proposing a set of standards to be used in drainage maintenance.

This training will walk you through the proposed standards and provide you a conceptual draft manual to follow when you manage your own project. The goal of the training is to provide the information you need to conduct the maintenance on your own.

Please bring: Boots, rain gear, and water bottle and/or coffee cup
Light refreshments will be provided
